This is added back for 11.1 now. But as William said in the email, we if there are specific features of S3 backup a customer needs, those should be focused on the supported UI we have for it. Otherwise a tool like this could come and go again down the road, whereas the UI will continue to be supported, and of course 3rd-party CLI apps like this are not QA'd either.

I've already submitted a feature request for the feature that this customer needs. It can be seen at #25621

I don't know if completion of #25621 would mean that the s3cmd isn't required any more or not. I can ask if we want to go that route.

Thanks,
